Dear Mr. Lullulangi,

I am the editor-in-chief of Metszet, so congrats, You reached me.

I read through the article, before reviewing some major changes has to be made:

1. The article has to have large, good quality photos (min. 2000x2000 pixels, nice shots (sunshine etc...))
2. The article has to discuss the renovation of the vernacular houses You introduce. We are architectural periodical, so we are interested in the modern intervention, preservation, but not the ancient building itself.

If You can rewrite it so, we would be glad to publish such an article (we have never published anything from Indonesia, so it would be interesting.)

Best,
Pal CSANADY, ed.

Dear Mr. Lullulangi,

I prefer the other article, but with the changes I wrote.

Our periodical is architectural, so we need illustrations.

Best

Dear Mr. Lullulangi,

I ask for one change: please write on the reservation (restoration, renovation), maintenance of these Tongkonan buildings (and environment), and if You could, please shorten on the introduction (or cancel it).

Send the illustrations in the largest available size via large-file-sender (eg. wetransfer.com).

And please send a short CV on both of You.

Thanks in advance!

Dear Mr. Lullulangi,

The article is perfect, we accept it for publishing.

Could You please send the pictures separately in as large format as available?

And short cv on You.

Best Regards,

Dear Dr. Lullulangi,

I can promise that we publish it before 2020 March. (Maybe sooner, but I cannot promise for sure.)

BUT. We are still looking forward to receive large scale illustration (e.g. photos), as I mentioned before.

Best,

Pal Csanady

Dear Dr. Lullulangi,

We need large scale photos for the publication, so I ask for the original .jpg (or .tif, etc) files, min. 1500x2000 pixel size, or larger.

We cannot take large photos from the .doc file.

Thanks in advance

Dear Prof. Lullulangi,

Our magazine is in Hungarian, and we also publish an English abstract (this is not ready yet). This is a professional translation of Your article.

This will be published in the 2019/7 issue, yes, but we still work on this issue (we are bimonthly, so normally 6 issues in a Year, but this is an extra issue). It will be ready in the first quarter of 2020, so not later than March 2020. We have a bit of delay...

Best,

Pal Csanady

Abstract

The study of the Toraja traditional house or Tongkonan in Indonesia aims to discover a better understanding of how a home serves as a container for human activities. The process of construction, from selection of materials and the cultural importance of forest estate management, through to methods of implementation and continuous social impact. Each stage being celebrated by the community to strengthen a sense of kinship. Recently some of these homes have been modernised, using for example sheet metal covering, which does increase the life span of a building at the cost of depreciating cultural and touristic value. This study aims to help the community retain value in terms of architectural and social heritage.
