Dear Sir,

Please find attached the final revision I've already made based on the comments required me to do.

To be quite detail, I did not make any changes in the title since to me it is already a beautiful title representing three main points: EFL teachers' perception, practices or application, and challenges of reflective practice. While Indonesian EFL Classroom to the best of my knowledge refers to the English teaching at Junior High Schools in Indonesia. However, I don't mind if IJoLE made the best appropriate change.

In terms of methodology (procedure of data collection), I've already made significant improvement. Likewise, discussion has also been improved as suggested. The revised version of this article remained using the required revision file with different name in order to show the differences with the original one.

Thanks a lot for very fruitful comments and suggestions.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

La Sunra

Dear authors

Few things to finalise:

- a. Reviewer suggests to choose the title that represents the content of the paper. The title is still too general (check paper to see reviewer's comment)
- b. Add declaration of conflicting interest: The authors state that there is no conflict of interest concerning the publication of this paper.
- c. Add the Funding acknowledgment. (If you receive any funding, you can state there). if you don't receive no funding, you can state the following expression:
The authors received no specific funding for this work
- d. Final check the names, affiliation and emails
